

James Tooke is/I am a final year medical student at the University of Manchester with a keen interest in surgery. I am the current president of Scalpel; the University of Manchester Surgical Society, working to deliver high-quality student led surgical conferences and teaching experiences. I completed a BSc in Surgical Technology and hope to pursue a career in Trauma & Orthopaedics