

My name is Leah Argus and I am a histopathology specialty trainee in the North West. I attended medical school at the University of Manchester and undertook my foundation training at Manchester University NHS Foundation Trust. After this I started my specialty training in histopathology. I am interested in paediatric and perinatal pathology and am looking to apply for this at ST3 level. Alongside my enthusiasm for my training, I am interested in research and medical education. Outside of medicine, my interests include winter mountaineering, yoga and sewing.
