

Dr Stephanie J. Edwards MBChB DOHNS FRCPath

I am currently a Consultant Histopathologist specialising in Head and Neck pathology based at Manchester Royal Infirmary.

I attended medical school at the University of Sheffield and undertook my foundation training there, including an FY2 rotation as an Academic Clinical Fellow in Medical Education. I was a core surgical trainee in south Wales, where I achieved MRCS and DOHNS before undertaking a year as a SpR in Otolaryngology in Plymouth. By this stage of training I had decided that my interests lay outside of surgery and, with the help of friendly local colleagues, was introduced to histopathology - and never looked back! I moved to Manchester in 2014 for histopathology training, completing training and starting as a consultant in 2020.

Outside of work I am a big fan of board gaming, reading (primarily sci-fi and fantasy novels), crochet and crafting.
